Christine Hofauer is now on maternity leave and we are delighted to have welcomed our new dentist Lynn:

Originally from Belfast, Lynn graduated from Newcastle University in 2011 and has since gained extensive experience working in both general practice and hospital settings. She has a strong clinical interest in oral surgery and restorative dentistry, combining technical skill with a meticulous approach to patient care.

Lynn is passionate about the role of clear, supportive communication in achieving and maintaining long-term oral health. She takes time to understand each patient's individual needs and concerns, ensuring they feel informed and confident throughout their treatment.

Known for her calm and gentle chairside manner, Lynn is particularly skilled in caring for nervous patients, helping them feel at ease in a comfortable and reassuring environment. Building trusting relationships with her patients is central to her approach, and she considers this one of the most rewarding aspects of her work.
